Exploring the

Though Prince Edward Island does not appear to be a very large place – in fact, it is just about 280 km from tip-to-tip – there's a lot packed into this tiny province. As you make your way around, you see the Island easily earns its reputation as the "garden province" place in history as the Birthplace of Canada is celebrated through and our Celtic, Acadian and Mi'kmaq heritage is still very much alive.

The crescent shape of the Island lends itself very well to a three-part touring program; it's an island, so follow our coastal drives through ocean vistas, with shoreline views alternating from red sandstone cliffs to soft pink beach scenes. When touring, follow the highway signs shown here to discover the Island's coastal treasures.

North Cape Coastal Drive

This is a region where pie is made from seaweed, houses are made from bottles and Acadian and native Mi'kmaq cultures thrive. A restored lighthouse now operating as an inn and a museum celebrating our world-famous potatoes are among the many possible stops along the way. The 350-kilometre North Cape Coastal Drive is named for its midpoint, North Cape, where 17 giant windmills stand on the Island's westernmost tip. Visit www.tourismpei.com/north-cape-drive.

Central Coastal Drive

The Central Coastal Drive highlights two distinct shores. The southern Red Sands Shore portion of the Drive runs along Northumberland Strait, where sandstone cliffs and gentle beaches contrast perfectly with rolling farm fields. Green Gables Shore runs along the northern portion of the Central Coastal Drive. Beyond the wealth of sites related to Anne of Green Gables, the area is home to no fewer than 10 golf courses! Visit www.tourismpei.com/central-drive

ON THE ISLAND ROADS

PEI is an agricultural province and you may find yourself sharing the highway with farm vehicles from time to time. The brightly coloured slow moving vehicle sign (pictured here) will help you identify farm vehicles. We also encourage you to watch for crop signs, placed in some fields to help visitors identify interesting crops grown here.

In Canada, the metric system is used for highway speeds and distances. The maximum speed on PEI major highways is usually 90 km/h (55 mph) and secondary roads usually 80 km/h (50 mph). Speed limits are reduced in towns and villages. Radar detectors are illegal in PEI and will be confiscated. It is also illegal to use hand-held, wireless electronic devices while driving. Bicycle helmets are mandatory for all cyclists. We value your life so wear your seatbelt – it's the law! Our highway safety law requires seatbelts for adults and safety restraints for children. We take special pride in our clean roadsides, fines are imposed for littering.

East Coastal Drive winds through fishing villages and past potato farms, golf courses and country inns. As you make your way around, watch for a historic village, the Island's first winery, a beach famous for its singing sands and three of the province's top golf courses. At its midpoint, this 475-kilometre coastal drive takes you to East Point, where you can climb to the top of the lighthouse. Visit www.tourismpei.com/points-east-drive.

ONCE UPON A TIME THE FERRY
WAS THE ONLY WAY TO VISIT
PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.
SOME SAY IT STILL IS.

TRAVEL BY SEA. SAVE TIME. DRIVE LESS.
